DECISION

FOP/166871

PRELIMINARY RECITALS

Pursuant to a petition filed June 25, 2015, under Wis. Admin. Code §HA 3.03, to review a decision by the Ozaukee County Department of Social Services in regard to FoodShare benefits (FS), a hearing was held on July 22, 2015, at Port Washington, Wisconsin.

The issue for determination is whether Petitioner was overissued FoodShare benefits.

This hearing was combined with a hearing for Petitioner's girlfriend; nonetheless, a separate decision is required though the two cases and decisions are very similar.

There appeared at that time and place the following persons:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Petitioner (CARES # [REDACTED]) is a resident of Ozaukee County.
2. The agency sent Petitioner a Notice of FoodShare Overissuance dated April 3, 2015. It informed Petitioner that he had been overissued FoodShare in the amount of $2066.00 for the period from May 24, 2013 through December 31, 2013.

3. The basis for this FoodShare overissuance claim was that income for Petitioner was not reported by his girlfriend though he was reported in her household.
4. Petitioner's girlfriend's healthcare and child care case was reviewed in April/May 2013. (While Petitioner and his girlfriend do have a child together that youngster was not born until September 18, 2014. She does have another child for whom the child care was received.) In an interview at the end of that review process, she requested FoodShare benefits. She reported that Petitioner was in the home but did not indicate that he was working.
5. Petitioner's girlfriend completed a case review in August 2013 and a six month report form in September 2013. She reported Petitioner in the home on both. No employment was reported for him.
6. A May 28, 2013 Notice of Decision and a September 30, 2013 Notice of Decision do include Petitioner as part of his girlfriend's FoodShare household and notes a household income reporting threshold of $2106.00.
7. The agency noted that there was likely an overpayment in this case in a February 5, 2014 email.

DISCUSSION

The federal regulation concerning FS overpayments requires the State agency to take action to establish a claim against any household that received an overissuance of FS due to an intentional program violation, an inadvertent household error (also known as a "client error"), or an agency error (also known as a "non-client error"). 7 C.F.R. § 273.18(b), see also FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, Appendix 7.3.2. Generally speaking, whose "fault" caused the overpayment is not at issue if the overpayment occurred within the 12 months prior to discovery by the agency. See, 7 C.F.R. § 273.18(b); see also FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, App. 7.3.1.9. However, overpayments due to "agency error" may only be recovered for up to 12 months prior to discovery. FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, 7.3.2.1. Overpayments due to "client error" may be recovered for up to six years after discovery. Id. All adult members of a household are liable for the overpayment. FSH, §7.3.1.2.

In an administrative hearing concerning the propriety of an overpayment of benefits the agency has the burden of proof to establish that the action taken by the agency was correct. A petitioner must then rebut the agency's case and establish facts sufficient to overcome the evidence of correct action by the agency in determining the overpayment action was required.

Also applicable here are the following provisions from the FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook (FSH), §7.3.2.1.

Client Error

Establish a claim for a client error that occurred when the FS group unintentionally:

1. Failed to provide correct or complete information.
2. Failed to report a change that was required to be reported.
3. Received FS for which it was not entitled pending a fair hearing decision.

The look back period for client errors begins with the date of discovery (the day the IM discovered the potential that an overissuance may exist) and extends backward:

1. Six years, or
2. To the month the change would have been effective had the group timely reported it, whichever is most recent.

The look back period for non-client errors begins with the date of discovery (the day the IM discovered the potential that an overissuance may exist) and extends backward:

1. Twelve months, or
2. To the month the error was effective had the change been acted on timely, whichever is most recent.

The overissuance period begins with the first month the change would have been effective up to the month prior to when the case was corrected.

It is essential that the date of discovery be documented in case comments. This date locks in the look back and overissuance period. This date will not change even if calculated untimely.

In order to meet the established timeliness requirements, overissuance claims must be completed before the last day of the quarter following the quarter in which the IM discovered an overissuance. This holds true for both client and agency errors. Overissuance claims must be established and recovered even if they are not calculated within this timeframe. Overissuance claims must be established and recovered even if they are calculated late; failing to complete a claim within the given timeframe does not void the overissuance.

FSH, §7.3.2.1.

Further, regarding discovery and establishing claims, an April 4, 2012 BPS/DFS Operations Memo, No. 12-20 (effective 4-4-2012), indicates that the “discovery” date is not the county agency’s May 2015 FS Overpayment Notice, but instead the “the date that the ESS became aware of the potential that an overissuance may exist.” That date was February 5, 2015.

Petitioner’s defense here is that his girlfriend informed the agency that she lived with Petitioner but was told that he was not part of the household as they did not have a child in common thus she did not report his income. Thus Petitioner contends that this was an agency error not a client error. He also argues that the agency never requested verification of his earnings – also an agency error. The argument is that these agency errors limit the overpayment to the period of 12 months prior to the discovery of the error.

I conclude that there is an overpayment here and that the agency may recover it. First, I am not convinced that this was agency error. Petitioner’s girlfriend noted that Petitioner was in the home but reported no employment for him. She reports no employment for him in August or September 2013. That it was agency error that it did not request verification for him does not make sense – there is no reason to request verification of something it was not told exists. Additionally, the May and September 2013 Notices of Decision do indicate that he is a FoodShare household member. Finally, even if this were an agency error, it was discovered within 12 months of the start of the overpayment.

Petitioner also argues that this overpayment was not calculated in the quarter following the quarter in which it was discovered thus cannot be collected. The policy manual does state, however, that an overpayment must be established and collected even if calculated outside of time limits. I do not see a conflict in the relevant Federal regulation and noted has been noted by Petitioner’s attorney. See 7 CFR §273.18.

Finally, I do note for Petitioner’s benefit the following FSH provision as to repayment of an overissuance:

7.3.2.12 Repayments

A client who makes a repayment agreement may not be subject to tax intercept as long as s/he is meeting the conditions of the agreement. If a client has received three dunning notices, s/he is subject to both tax intercept and monthly repayment.

The policies for monthly repayments are listed on the repayment agreements:

1. Overpayments less than $500 should be paid by at least $50 monthly installments
2. Overpayments $500 and above should be paid within a three-year period either by equal monthly installments, or by monthly installments of not less than $20.

FSH, §7.3.2.12.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

That household income was not reported as required and Petitioner's household was overissued FoodShare as alleged and the agency may proceed to recover that overissuance.

THEREFORE, it is

ORDERED

That this appeal is dismissed.
